Public Transportation

1000 Broadway is easily accessible by BART via the 12th Street Station. There is also an Amtrak at Jack London Square.

Bay Area Rapid Transit \(BART\) - BART is the Bay Area's public transit system of high-speed electric trains, which connects Contra Costa, Alameda and San Francisco counties. The 12th Street/City Center BART station in downtown Oakland is located adjacent to the TransPacific Building. Exit the station via 11th Street to arrive at the corner of Broadway and 11th, directly across the street from our office.

Alameda Oakland Ferry - The Alameda/Oakland Ferry is a great way to commute from San Francisco into downtown Oakland from locations around the San Francisco Bay. It takes about 12 minutes to walk from the Jack London Square ferry dock to 1000 Broadway, or you can take the free B Shuttle. The ferry makes connections from the Ferry Building in San Francisco, PIER 39 in San Francisco, the City of Alameda and Angel Island State Park.

Free Broadway Shuttle - The City of Oakland Broadway Shuttle is a free and green transit service linking Jack London Square, Old Oakland, Chinatown, City Center, Uptown and Lake Merritt along the Broadway corridor from Embarcadero to Grand Avenue. Get the schedule at <http://www.meetdowntownoak.com/shuttle.php>
